PASSPORTS

(TL:VISA-375; 03-21-2002)

On February 1, 2002, Chad introduced newly formatted diplomatic and service passports, with enhanced anti-fraud features. The passports have a five-year validity period.

a. The diplomatic passport cover is now dark burgundy instead of bright red; the service passport retains its camel-colored cover.

b. The blue, yellow and red Chadian flag that appeared in the upper left-hand corner of previously issued passport cover has been eliminated entirely.

c. An intaglio U-shaped design, with "Francois-Charles Oberthur Fiduciare" printed in a small font below it, has been added to the inside cover.

d. The perforated passport number is shown on top of the pages instead of bottom.

e. The bearer's personal information (full name, nationality, date and place of birth, sex, and the passport's issue and expiration date) and photo are now on the same page, displayed horizontally rather than vertically.

Several new security features appear in these passports. The paper stock is multicolored (mint green on either side, and a peach-colored band running down the center), with "Republic of Chad" (in Arabic) and the Chadian logo printed in a pale golden brown. The pages are watermarked, with a four leaf clover encircled by the name "Oberthru." The personal data and/or photo page is now laminated.

Until further notice, old-style diplomatic and service passports will remain valid up to their expiration date, at which time they will be replaced with the newer model passports.

The issuance of Chadian passports has been centralized. Previously, Chadian embassies abroad were authorized to issue passports. Now, however, the national police (DSN) will be responsible for issuing all regular passports, and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs will control issuance of all diplomatic and official passports.
